Law Enforcement Response and Interaction with the

DEVELOPMENTALLY DISABLED COMMUNITY

WHY ATTEND LAW ENFORCEMENT RESPONSE AND INTERACTION WITH THE DEVELOPMENTALLY DISABLED COMMUNITY?

Attendees will gain the skills to identify, understand, and address the unique needs of developmentally disabled persons, especially in crisis situations.

Approximately 1 in 5

young adults with Autism will interact with a police officer before the age of 21.

Too many of these events result in restraint, arrest, improper use of force, physical and emotional trauma and tragic death.

WHO NEEDS TO ATTEND?

- Police
- Fire/EMS
- 911 Operators
- Healthcare Workers
- Crisis Counselors

WHAT IT COVERS

This course is specifically designed to educate police personnel and other first responders on the legalities and unique challenges associated with responding to calls involving developmentally disabled individuals. Attendees will learn how to identify, understand, and effectively respond to developmentally disabled persons in crisis, ensuring a compassionate and legally sound approach to these sensitive situations.

This in-person version of the course differs from our online version only in that students will participate in scenarios using virtual reality technology to practice the skills learned in class.

Attendees will participate in a 16-hour instructor facilitated training class.
